FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Camden County Welcomes New Public Works Director

WOODBINE, GEORGIA – February 25, 2019 – Camden County Administrator, Steve Howard announced today that Mark Patrick, the County Engineer for the Newton County Board of Commissioners has been hired as the new Public Works Director for Camden County. In this role, Mr. Patrick will be responsible for duties to include, but not limited to: the maintenance, repair, and minor construction of the County transportation system, as well as, drainage maintenance and management.

Mr. Patrick has over 30 years of experience as an engineer including over a decade of experience in local government. In addition to his tenure in Newton County, Patrick served as the City Engineer for the City of Milledgeville, Georgia, and the Assistant Public Works Director for Athens-Clarke County. Previously, Patrick was self-employed as an engineer, concentrating on site development and subdivision plans.

“I am pleased to welcome Mark to Camden County and look forward to his leadership in the Public Works Department,” said County Administrator Steve Howard. “The county will benefit from his experience and knowledge as he leads our Public Works team.”

Mr. Patrick has a Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering from the Georgia Institute of Technology and is registered in Georgia as both a Professional Engineer and a Land Surveyor. He fills the vacancy from the retirement of former director Harvey Amerson. His new role will begin in Camden County on March 11, 2019.

About Camden County: Located in the extreme southeast corner of Georgia, Camden County truly is “Georgia’s Coastal Community of Choice.” Originally formed in 1777, Camden County is best known for its rich history, natural scenic beauty and Southern hospitality. Our vision is helping to make this the best place to live by preserving and enhancing the history and quality of life, while promoting smart growth and providing an efficient, effective and responsive government.
