Louis Foltzer Earns Designation as Local Government Chief Information Officer

WOODBINE, GEORGIA — April 16, 2019 — The Camden County Board of Commissioners is pleased to announce that Information Technology Director Louis Foltzer has earned the designation of a Local Government Chief Information Officer (LGCIO). This is a joint certificate program between the Georgia Chapter of the Government Management Information Sciences (GA-GMIS) and the University of Georgia's Carl Vinson Institute of Government (CVIIOG). It is co-sponsored by the Association of County Commissioners of Georgia (ACCG) and the Georgia Municipal Association (GMA).

"I am proud that Louis has reached this professional milestone," said County Administrator Steve Howard. "His work in leading our information technology and cybersecurity efforts benefit all Camden County residents."

The LGCIO Certificate Program requires qualified professionals to complete online and in-person classes, independent assignments, and a capstone project. To receive the certificate Foltzer completed 240 learning credit hours through CVIOG. Foltzer will officially receive his certification at the GA-GMIS Spring Conference in late April.

About the Georgia Chapter of the Government Management Information Sciences (GA GMIS): The Georgia Chapter of the Government Management Information Sciences is continually blazing new frontiers to better serve the public and governmental agencies through sharing of knowledge in the field of Information Technology.
